The term "media skills" encompasses that group of student skills which are involved in locating, selecting, using, and understanding of instructional media in print and nonprint formats.

This bibliography of materials, which facilitate the teaching of media skills on the elementary and secondary levels, is organized under twelve clusters of essential skills: orientation, citizenship, listening and interpreting skills, selection of media, parts of a book, publication terminology, nonbook terminology, introduction and location of materials, card catalog and classification, methods of research, reference tools, equipment operation and terminology.

A complete bibliographic information is provided each time an item is listed. The grade levels have been added as a convenience to the teachers and librarians using the bibliography.

Gullette, Irene, and Hatfield, Frances. Test of Library/Study Skills. Larlin Corporation, 1975. (4-12) Complete kit consists of 50 test booklets, 100 answer cards, 1 answer key. Level I. $17.00; Level II, $19.00; Level III, $19.00.

A new series of updated tests developed from the National Test of Library Skills (Gullette, Hatfield, Myers, 1967.) , which was designed as a diagnostic test for grades 4-12.

Margrabe, Mary. The "Now" Library: A Stations Approach Media Center Teaching Kit. Acropolis Books, 1973. $6.50. (Professional).

Although this source is primarily designed to bring the teaching of media skills in line with the methods used in today's highly individualized teaching, it also includes tests and keys along with exercise sheets which include the publisher's permission for the buyer to duplicate the contents in any way and in any numbers which are useful.

Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills: Study Skills. McGraw Hill, 1975. (1-10)

Nationally standardized tests developed to measure the ability of students to use library catalog cards, atlases, almanacs, indexes, books, encyclopedias, maps, graphs, diagrams, and charts. The sections including library media skills and the grade levels at which they are normally administered are first through tenth grade.

SRA Assessment Survey: Achievement Series, Multilevel Edition, Skills Profile. Science Research Associates, 1974.

Nationally standardized tests developed to measure the ability of students in reading comprehension, vocabulary, social studies, language arts usage, language arts spelling, science, mathematics concepts, mathematics computation, and use of sources. The latter section includes specific questions about the use of dictionaries, tables of contents, indexes, references, catalog cards, maps, charts, and graphs.

Iowa Tests of Basic Skills. Houghton Mifflin Co., 1978.

Designed for grades K-12. Provides diagnostic information about learning the basic skills, including visual and reference skills.
